WACOSS Media Release: WACOSS Welcomes Carbon Tax Household Assistance 11th July 2011

WACOSS has welcomed the household assistance package announced Sunday as a part of the Australian Government's proposed scheme for pricing carbon pollution.

Climate change threatens to have the greatest impact on Western Australia's most vulnerable people and communities, and the Council welcomes the commitment of the Government to begin the process of taking action on this challenge in a socially equitable way. Click here to read more

When poor performance becomes a real drama

Square pegs in round holes – messy relationships and resistance to change – skills gaps and people with unfortunate personalities – legal and industrial consequences – the job of a managing a poorly performing staff member can become a nightmare. Read more....

Managing poor performance or difficult staff is the most common issue that the WACOSS Management Support Online (MSO) 'Getting assistance' service deals with. WACOSS MSO has a range of resources to help managers in their role as 'people managers'. Download free resources

REGISTER NOW! My Life My Way: Self Directed Support in WA Forum - Wed 10th August 2011

WACOSS has been working with the Department of Premier and Cabinet and a number of other partners (including NDS, WAAMH, HCCWA, Mental Health Commission and DSC) in planning a self directed services forum. The key objective of the forum is to generate discussion and interest in self-directed service design among people and consumer groups, community sector organisations and government agencies. It aims to do this in an open and collaborative style and is intended to lead to future conversations and events. The conference will also provide practical ideas on how to implement self-directed service design. Click here to read more

Proposed WA Regional Community Sector Capacity Building Project- call for Expressions of Interest from Regional Community Services

WACOSS is calling for expressions of interest within the community services sector, specifically existing or planned regional networks; within the nine Development Commission areas to participate in a new project: WA Regional Community Sector Capacity Building Project.

The WA Regional Community Sector Capacity Building Project will create a mechanism through which two way discussion of across sector development and community social policy work can occur, thus reducing delays in implementation of necessary sector responses and capacity building. This combined and integrated strategy offers necessary information, expertise, and the building of momentum, to drive discussion, practices and service delivery at a statewide regional level. Expressions of interest are sought from people who are members of civil society organisations to attend the Commonwealth People's Forum 2011 (CPF).

Thanks to Lotterywest funding we are able to fund some Western Australians to attend the CPF. The attached file provides details on how to apply.

The Commonwealth People's Forum (CPF), brings together civil society representatives from around the world, to discuss and debate key issues facing Commonwealth people. Held every two years in the run up to the Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting (CHOGM), the CPF is the single biggest opportunity for civil society to engage with Commonwealth leaders on global development issues. ACOSS calls for boldness in response to climate change, 27

June 2011

Australia's peak community welfare body, ACOSS, has called on the Government, the Greens and independent members and Senators to act boldly in response to climate change. ACOSS has also called on Coalition members and Senators to act in the national interest and to support the introduction of a price on carbon pollution, along with other measures. "Climate change will affect all us all, but people who live in vulnerable situations and on low incomes will be affected first and worst," said Dr Tessa Boyd-Caine, Acting CEO, Australian Council of Social Service. WACOSS Submission to Australia's Urban Water Sector Productivity Commission Inquiry Draft Report

On 10 June 2011 WACOSS tabled a submission to the Productivity Commission's Draft Report on Australia's Urban Water Sector. The Inquiry has provided a unique opportunity to consider future objectives for urban water markets in the face increasing cost of living pressures and challenging future climate and water supply scenarios.

Given the essentiality of water to basic household functions such as drinking, cooking, bathing and general hygiene, and the negative health and societal implications of restricting water supply to individuals, families and the community, WACOSS has argued that universal access to an essential volume of water must be central to the objectives of the inquiry. Event Management Made Easy – Tuesday 26 July 2011

Running successful events is vital for not-for-profit organisations. Events such as fundraisers, training workshops, seminars and conferences are an opportunity to boost your profile and raise funds, but also pose some significant risks. At this workshop you will learn how to plan great events, including budgeting, marketing, timelines and contingency planning. This is a workshop not to be missed if your role involves running events for your organisation.

For more information, and to register online, please go

Transforming Organisations - A Journey in Change Management – Wednesday 27 July 2011

Especially in the not-for-profit sector, it can sometimes feel like change is the only constant. Changes in funding, personnel, systems, procedures and policies can create challenges in organisations that require strong leadership to overcome. At this workshop you will learn how to manage the process of change smoothly; from planning change to communicating for maximum buy-in, to identifying and overcoming resistance, to ensuring the new practices replace the old workplace culture. An important workshop for executive and management-level staff looking to lead their employees or volunteers successfully through significant change.

Caring Together – Understanding the Carers

Cares Recognition Act 2004 – Staff training Resources

The government of Western Australia – Disability Services Commission was pleased to announce a new training resource aimed at increasing the knowledge and understanding of disability support staff to the requirements of the Carers Recognition Act 2004.

The initiative arose from outcomes of surveys and other evidence indicating the need for additional training materials to be available for staff working directly with people with disability and their carers. Click here to read this article in full

The WA Social Worker of the Year Awards 2011 nominations are now open.

Information on how to nominate, the Nomination Guidelines and specific Award Nomination forms can all be found on the new Awards website at www.socialworkeroftheyear.com.au.

The Awards' patron, Jan Stewart CEO Lotterywest, invites you to nominate outstanding social workers for all of the Awards categories.

"....As Patron of the WA Social Worker of the Year Awards I am pleased to launch the 2011 call for nominations across the five categories of these Awards. The 2010 Awards successfully recognised the wide ranging, creative and useful contributions made by all the social workers nominated for an award to the quality of life of individuals, families and the wider West Australian community. The calibre of the finalists and winners for 2010 was most impressive, demonstrating the innovative practice undertaken by our social work profession. I look forward to another year of inspiring entries.

I believe it is very important that we acknowledge the members of our profession and publicly recognise the often unrecognised stories of caring and courage which our colleagues demonstrate.

I encourage people from all walks of life to nominate a social worker: a social worker making an outstanding contribution in their work for clients, community and the social work profession..."

Harnessing your organisation's ICT capability more effectively

The School of Information Systems at Curtin University cordially invites you to attend a Forum specifically tailored for the Not-for-Profit sector

The forum will address issues of concern within the sector as they relate to information and communications technology (ICT) and introduce attendees to a range of industry solutions being offered by Curtin through its soon to be established Curtin Not-for-Profit ICT Support Centre. As part of the research supporting the forum, a survey form has been prepared which attendees are asked to complete. The results of the survey will be discussed at the forum.
